HONGRONS, JANUARY 14TH, 1888.

In its issue of Thursday the China Mail takes exception, rather tardily, to some remarks which appeared in this column on the 9th inst. on the rendition of Chinese crimi nals: Our contemporary hardly seems to know wherein the point of disagreement We maintained in the article in ques-

While there fore great care should be taken by the colonial authoto prevent any abuse arising out of it, all reafacilities should be given to the Chinese Goment to recover well known criminals, both for the sake of Chinase society, of whom they are the scourge, and also to prevent the island bocoming the lair and headquarters of dangerous miscroants. But while we would advocate the willing rendition of criminals to the Chinese Government on reasonable evidence of their guilt, we would carmently depresate eighty over this colony. It is of the highest importance to British prestige in the Far East, it is essential that they should be thoroughly convinced of the ability of the British Government to promptly resent, and sternly punish if need be, the slightest infringement of their rights by Chinese officials. No greater blow to the prosperity of the colony could be dealt than for the Chinese living in it to discover that not withstanding the wegis of the British flag, the pre by British officials, they were still not safe from the mandarin screw. sence of a British garrison, and the administration

There is an impression, however,

Our views on the general question of Rendition are now well known. Any one desirous of maintaining reciprocal and friendly relations with China knows that. in a general sense, it is a mutual advantage to give up and receive notorious criminals who find refuge in the territory of either. Circumstances, however, considerably after the free and enprestrained acceptance of this mutual system—not merely the question of cruelty to or torture of the prisoner so rendited, but the disregard of truth and honest dealing which too frequently marks the conduct of Chinese officials." As | first, of course, but the man who spends a | we remarked not long ago upon one of the cases before 'No prima facie case can be legally or 'renditionally good if it is based upon false testimeny. But once admit that a Chinese subject can be given up in this Colony to the mandarin of the mainland upon tainted evidence, and we may then say farewell to the necurity of Chinese residents here." For the disposal of characters who are known to be dangerous to the neace and good order of the Colony, there ought to previded a system of deportation—short, sharp, and decisive. This course we advocated seven or eight months ago, when the subject of rendition was the absorbing topic of the day. It is one which thoroughly deserves the consideration of the authorities here. and of those in Peking? Now, it is the Magistrate's duty to decide whether the evidence is tainted. If it is false, or there is reason to believe it to be so. he cannot, has no right to, find a prima facie case has been made out. What right has our contemporary to assume that the evidence was false? It was not published, and without a full report of the proceedings it is impossible for outsiders to pretend to be able to decide as to the merits of the testimony. The public must not be Glonearn, from London, left Singapore on Thursled away by the sometimes random. often heated, and occasionally reckless statements of counsel; the only fair way to form a judgment is on the evidence. That was not accessible either to us or to our con temporary owing to its length precluding its publication. The Magistrate, on the other o'clock to-morrow. deal with, but that fact must not be allowed to interfere with the duties the local Government owe to the colony and to Kwangtung. Our contemporary would apparently substitute deportation for rendition. This is really hogging the question. We have no right to refuse rendition of criminals to China, provided the Anthorities undertake not to torture them when delivered up. . On the other hand, deportation, to be effective, must either be accompanied by brandingwhich has been disapproved by the Secretary, March...... of State for the Colonies -or by intimation | Overtme ... to the Canton officials that such and such a criminal has been turned loose in Kwangtung. In the latter event the Chinese Au-'thorities would no doubt come to a very prompt decision as to the heat mode of disposing of the deportee, who would soon meet the usual fate of Chinese criminals on the shots at each. The following are the teams:-Cunton Execution Ground. Decapitation is in China the penalty for many crimes besides murder, and the Kwangtung officials have a short way with troublesome offenders that is rather shocking to civilised ideas. This systemof deportation is, we believe, strongly advocated by many of the respectable Ohinese residents in Hongkong, as they conscienriously believe it would purge the Colony of a large proportion of its criminal population while, as providing for the certain capture of many desperate characters, it would also prove beneficial to the honest and law-abiding portion of the people on the mainland. But it is a system that would never be sanctioned by the Colonial Office, as being out of harmony with all notions of humane government, and it would underlably open a door timental Europe in the manufactured article, passed giving power to the Governor to issue times, as he shall find meet, any building soever to the gravest abuses. The Chinese lokungs. are not so incorruptible but that for a consithan appears to have been given them by manufacturers and political economists. deration some of them' at least might be induced to report certain persons as dangerous to the peace and good order of the community for the sake of reward from the mandarins. Of course, if the Chinese officials could be relied upon to act honestly, and if the criminal code of China were remodelled on a Western basis, there would be no objection to this system of deportation, and a vast amount of trouble, expense, and irritation might be saved. But, in the existing condition of affairs, we fail to see how deportation can be successfully carried Revue" with considerable success. The enterinto effect. To merely arrest and sond a tainment concluded with a very fair representaman off to the mainland on penalty of imprisonment if caught again in the Colony is hearly applause at the fall of the curtain. really no deterrent, while it is a positive njustice to our-neighbours. TO THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." Sir. Till narrow minded and extremely bigoted and one-sided view of the land question taken by yourself in the leader of this morning's Daily Press is so apparent as scarcely to call for any refutation, but in a busy community like on the subject differ radically from your own yet have no time to spare in which to commit those opinions to paper, I may be excused for putting forward a few remarks on a subject while is o such vital importance to us all. Those who like yourself advocate short lesses and unite ing down the owners of land, seem to forgov that the original investors are those who have been the heat and labour of the day; it is they who have built the houses, without which there could be no prosperity, because it is evident that population could not increase without house accommodation. Fortunate indeed it is that some of our rulers in the most have been men of broad and enlightened views; for without actually owning the land who would venture to erect the magni ficent and enduring structures which, thanks to there have been grabbers, sharks who owning capital have invested in land to reap the benefit of other's labour, mon who have allowed their land to lie fallow while, as they had cumningly foreseen, others more enterprising built on all sides around them and thus took the risk which raised the value of the obstructive speculator's land. I do not deny that in order to circumven this class of purchasers it may be desirable to add cortain clauses to the leases to be issued in the future. But your statement that Government pleasing fragrance to the breath. in selling land is parting with its capital is in correct inasmuch as when buyers have a good title they are more likely to erect a permanent also had in a golden colour. class of buildings, the rateable value of which is a short leascholder. It is to the rates that we must look for our permanent source of colonia pay more than their fair share of the popular
